PUBLIC AREAS: LOBBY, HALLWAY & BALLROOM

Hospitality spaces are so vital when welcoming guests to have a stay for a vacation, or for love birds to celebrate their Big Day. That's why making an impression is pertinent especially in areas such as lobbies, hallways and ballrooms. These are places where guests will congregate, so giving a good first impression is unquestionably important.

Aside from these spaces being decorative, welcoming and cosy, some emphasis on health and safety features needs to be looked after. In addition, these spaces are often large and spacious, so even soliciting economical products to decorate is another key consideration.

Wallcoverings are not only versatile and safe to use, they also come in a dazzling array of designs to suit budgets and style preferences. Upholstery fabric and flooring solutions should also complement the wallcoverings. So, what you have is a coherent look that will make any lobby, hallway and/or ballroom stand out.

Making an impression is pertinent especially in areas such as lobbies, hallways and ballrooms.

GUESTROOM & OUTDOOR: POOLSIDE, WALKWAY

Guestrooms and outdoor zones should never be given by-the-way treatment. For guestrooms, the main intention is to allow the guest to feel right at home. Such a guest should be treated like the king of the house, so the interior appointments should be well thought-out.

A well-designed guestroom should emanate warmth, provide comfort and offer quietude for the guest to rest, relax, rejuvenate or sleep. These same requirements can also be applied to an outdoor setting - poolside or garden patio - where the guest or homeowner can also relax, recharge or rejuvenate.

While the guestroom will require attention to decorative details such as wallcovering or flooring solutions, the outdoor setting will need more emphasis on the latter. Once you have created a homely vibe for these two areas, your guest will enjoy the spoils.

BARS & RESTAURANTS

Bars and restaurants are areas associated with gustatory moments to tantalise our palates and satisfy our stomachs. A restaurant should be a zone devoted to the enjoyment of food, drinks and good company.

It should be a place where it is inviting, intimate, or simply to enjoy a communal meal with family and friends. While decorative elements such as wallcoverings are important to draw the eye, a well-designed restaurant should create the right mood to satisfy guests.

Therefore, fabric and flooring solutions should also create a strong visual appeal while ensuring these surfaces stay durable and are easy to maintain. Bars should also have the same requirements as restaurants because these are places where people hang out together and enjoy a refreshing tippie after a hard day's work.

Bars and restaurants are areas associated with gustatory moments to tantalise our palates and satisfy our stomachs.

OTHER AREAS: GYM, KITCHEN & RESTROOM

Never treat the gym, kitchen and restroom as perfunctory zones in a hospitality space. These are places where people spend some considerable time working out to keep fit or look good; prep and cook food; or enjoy short moments in washing up and relieving oneself.

As gyms and toilets take the beating of heat, sweat, moisture and bodily deposits, it is essential that we spend on good quality surfaces – floorings and wallcoverings – to lessen the proliferation of bacteria. Kitchens should be able to take the onslaught of splashes from hot oil or food stains.

Eye-catching wallcoverings in these spaces should not compromise on versatility and safety, that is being prone to spillages and slips, while floorings should bear the same tenets. If these spaces are created beautifully while providing safe and hygienic features, they can also be inviting and welcoming to anyone.

Never treat the gym, kitchen and toilet as perfunctory zones in a hospitality space.

OTHER AREAS: MEETING ROOM, CORRIDOR

Meetings are vital for business processes and to get everyone convening to discuss a topic. So a room to accommodate several people in a single room should be conducive, warm, inviting, and comfortable. Walltalkers are must-haves when communicating and idea on a whiteboard. Their ease-of-use and low-maintenance means you can express yourself clearly through graphics, texts, pictures, or scribbles then wipe away when the discussion is over. Axminster's broadloom carpets are vital in furnishing the floors to give a sophisticated and plush look. With a wide array of designs and colours, and high stitch-count, your office chairs glide over quietly so your discussion isn't hindered.

XSELECT premium wallcoverings do their magic by giving walls a means to express and shine through Japanese-inspired art. You can also opt for PremierFloor carpet tiles that are suitable for heavy footfall and chairs' castors. Don't snub the "prelude" when entering meeting rooms - corridors. A well-designed corridor has its merits by creating a sense of warmth, cosiness, and ease.

Flooring from Nox Ecoclick+ give the allure of wood without high maintenance and their clip-on feature makes them easy to install. You can also opt for Flotex's flocked flooring for cosy and carpeted floors that provide comfort for feet. Even the corridor walls should not be snubbed.

Korogard's materials like Rigid Sheet extend an air of sophistication and style. Prime your meetings and corridors with the right furnishings to create the right mood for a perfect office environment.
